Starting from the car park at the end of Binna Burra Road, QLD, this circuit walk takes you through the dense subtropical rainforests of Lamington National Park, visiting Tullawallal Lookout midway through the track. If you're looking for a nice walk through the forest that's not too demanding and offers peace, this walk is definitely for you. With interchanging habitats and some ancient tree species, it can make for a great family education trip as well. There's a memorial plaque on the track erected in honor of Gus Kouskos, a beloved overseer that had an exceptional talent for making friends with wild animals. Keep in mind that you can run into snakes sunning themselves or wandering about, so it's good to keep children in control. Let us begin by acknowledging the Traditional Custodians of the land on which we travel today, and pay our respects to their Elders past and present.
